

THE WINDWORD

The Newsletter of the Walnut Valley Sailing Club

March | 2021

Back in the Golden Age of Sail, the ships were of wood and the men made of iron. In those days, when Britannia Ruled the waves, women on a boat were regarded as bad luck. It's a notion that died hardest in yacht racing, especially in "The World's Longest Race."

They named the original round the world sailboat race for its original sponsor, Whitbread — a brewery. There's nothing more butch than that.

But a British sailor, whose chief experience had been as a yacht steward and cook, set out to change that in the 1980s. Tracy Edwards was 24 years old, and she and her crew's entry in the 1989-90 Whitbread (now called the Volvo Race) is the subject of BAFTA winning British filmmaker's inspiring documentary, "Maiden."

Roger Moore, Documentary Review; June 25, 2019

Are you looking at another solitary night of knot tying practice due to Covid 19? Don't despair! Take the night off, give the sheet bends and that pesky single handed bowline a break. You deserve it.

Pop yourself a bowl of popcorn, put some ice in a glass etc. and sit down and watch the incredible documentary; "Maiden." Every sailor should experience this movie at least once and learn the story of these amazing women.

Cheers to racing, to women, to "Maiden", and especially to you for mastering all of those crazy knots. Well done.

From the Commodore

A little bit of fear is never a bad thing

It's a rare day that I don't go out on the water without feeling at least a brief moment of fear. I think "fear" keeps me honest, focused and most importantly, it helps keep me safe. In fact, I think a bit of fear from time to time helps me become a better sailor.

OFFICERS:

COMMODORE

I'm not suggesting that I would sail without my life jacket - just because. And I'm not talking about sailing recklessly or in dangerous conditions either. I'm talking about sailing through anxious moments with confidence and control.

I recall sailing in Spain one day when it was blowing 15-20 knots and our lead instructor told the group of us to bungee off our tillers and fall in line for a downwind jibe exercise. In a word, I was petrified.

On the other hand, I trusted our instructor, I had faith in my skills and I was familiar with that unmistakable feeling of fear. Five minutes later the drill was over. I had survived it, learned a few tricks and... I felt absolutely exhilarated. The rewards of pushing through a moment of fear are both immediate and long lasting. I was able to push through my fear that day because I'd practiced it many times before. I knew what it felt like, and I knew how to deal with it.

This summer, I hope many of you will get out on the lake and try a few things you've never done before. Don't feel intimidated, shameful, or somehow inadequate when you feel momentarily unsure or fearful. It's fine, we all have those moments. (or at least we all have) If it's been twenty years since you felt that moment of fear, hmmm...

Of course above all else, be safe and know your limitations. Don't take unnecessary risks and never put others safety in jeopardy. Just know that being safe doesn't always equate with a feeling of absolute comfort.

From my experience, a little dose of fear is healthy and will make you a happier, safer and more confident sailor.

Cheers,
Tedd

A not so subliminal-
subliminal letter

Dear Dave, Tim and John:

That's a forest and our beloved lake is on the prairie. Thanks for the photo just the same, no worries, you'll each still receive one of those coveted gold stars. No hater's here, no ones going to judge you or your forest photo, and most certainly no ones going to talk about you, not publicly anyway. Keep shooting those photos; forest, swamp, arctic tundra, WVSC and all the rest! We just want your photos. Great work guys.

Scroll on down to see a few entries from our very own WVSC BOG members and others!

Game On 30 Days Down 30 To Go

Samsung, iPhone, Android, Polaroid, Nikon, or Canon will work just fine. The nuts and bolts of it all: we're looking to replace our Walnut Valley Sailing Website photo with one that better represents, us, our state, our lake and more importantly; Our Club. Let your creative genius run-amuck.

There are no rules other than the photos submitted must be the original work of you... the club members. No copied photos, no photos from newspapers, magazines, or any other published sources including the internet. Go out, have some fun and take a bucket load of photos, then send us your best work of

ONE. We'll do our best to include as many entries as we can in the April Windword along with the winning entry.

Good luck and be aware, some folks have already been out there from sunup to sundown shooting thousands of amazing photos. No worries. You've still got 30 days left and your good old Polaroid Instamatic. Snap your winning shot, develop it in less than 45 seconds, hop in the car and have it to me live, in person, in less than two hours. How cool is that?

Or, you can email me your best jpeg. teddblankenship59@gmail.com

Shout Out to Captain Katelinn Shaw and Eric Wertheimer; Katelinn is Eric's niece!

Want something fun, informative and flat out cool to do? Check out Captain Katelinn and the tall ship she sails; Adventuress. The talks are LIVE. Send a question in and then watch and listen as Captain Katelinn answers live from the ship.

Apologies we weren't able to get a notice out earlier. There is one live Seminar coming up. Each Dock Talk is recorded and available on YouTube as well.

See below for details or contact Eric: wertheimerc@att.net

Saturday Seminars

Haul out! What are we doing in the air?

Katelinn Shaw, Adventuress Captain →

YouTube Live on February 6th at 10am PST

The Dock Talks speaker series is a way for the public and the Sound Experience community to engage, on or off the ship, on topics focused on maritime, the environment and community. Experts in their field are invited to share their work and learnings in a variety of topics through a short presentation. Each talk is unique and cover a variety of topics. For example, juvenile salmon migration, how the Salish Sea map was created or how to identify marine mammals on the water.

All Virtual Dock Talks will be posted through the Sound Experience YouTube channel (via the Virtual Dock Talks Playlist) so they can be easily accessible for youth, families, teachers and the public. These presentations are accessible to all, free of charge.

Saturday Seminar: Haul out! What are we doing in the air?

February 20th on YouTube live at 10am PST

Take a walk around the ship to get a tour of all the projects underway when the ship is "on the hard." We'll take a look at the bottom paint, the propeller shaft and stuffing box, clean the sea strainers, empty the chain locker and more! This is a unique chance to see what goes on not behind the scenes, but under the water to keep us afloat!

CAMPING BEYOND B DOCKS AND SO MUCH MORE

We're looking for a few good boats. Somewhere between three & thirty would be a great number.

The plan is to sail across the lake, through the old dam and anchor out as a group for an overnighiter on the water.

Not sure about anchoring, sleeping on your boat etc. Never sailed to the "other side?" No worries. We'll provide support and offer a few surprises to boot. We'll make it easy and help you every step of the way to make sure you have a fun, safe and enjoyable "overnighiter" anchored out on your boat.

All ages and sailing experience welcome. Can't realistically do a night on the boat but would like to help out, let us know that too.

Click on one of the three buttons below and let us know what you're thinking:

SEEMS LIKE ONLY YESTERDAY WE WE'VE CAMPED OUT ON EL DORADO LAKE ...

LOCATION

The Other Side of Our Fine Lake; El Dorado State Park, Kansas

DATE AND TIME

09/18/21 6:00pm - 09/19/21 10:30am

Nothing is set in stone here. We're just testing the waters so to speak. *For the record: We already have three boats signed up. Excellent!

You fix breakfast & we're all in!

Let's plan one for spring too!

I want to help with this cool event

"24 HOURS ON BOARD UNDER SAIL CHALLENGE"

With a purpose...Hey, nobody said "YOU" had to do it. But if the idea floats your boat in some strange and semi-sadistic way, get a crew together, get a boat, a coffee pot and maybe a six pack of Red Bull and let's put together a game plan...

Note: the 24 hours on the water event is a sure bet. It's going to happen. Our stated purpose... we're working on it. These things take time. Relax and maybe try staying up through the "second half" this afternoon. You can do it.

Searched "SAIL" on YouTube
- you'll just have to see for yourself -
